Your waterways - benefiting local communities across the East Midlands

We're looking for local groups who would love to work with us to make more of their local waterway. Community groups who are keen to get more involved with their local canal, river or reservoir across the East Midlands are invited to submit ideas for an initial project which will be supported by the Trust.

In return, each group will agree to undertake volunteering activities to help look after their local waterway. This could be linked to the initial project or another opportunity such as volunteer rangers or a community adoption.

Successful applications could include (but are not limited to):

- improving local facilities, e.g. a new noticeboard or information panel
- providing a waterway taster session for group members
